

Seqwana Pryor

Seqwana Pryor, CEO and Co-Founder of PryCor Technologies, a consulting firm specializing in Lean Six Sigma Manufacturing and Operational Excellence. She holds a BA degree- Chemistry and Mathematics from Talladega College and MS/PhD in Chemical Engineering from Purdue University. She has 20 years of industry experience in chemical, plastics and food processing industries. She's held various positions from research & development, marketing, new business development to manufacturing process technology and operations organizational development.

She's active in several community and civic organizations and currently serves on the Board of The Biome School in Central West End. Seqwana is a true entrepreneur at heart, and also is the co-owner of The OC @Central West End, an event/meeting space for startups, non-profit and civic organizations seeking to help build a diverse community of collaborators and innovators in the St. Louis Ecosystem.

Seqwana is married and has 2 sons. In her spare time, she enjoys mentoring and engaging in STEM outreach programs and traveling.